

Organization of online meetings with clients

In the era of COVID trust relations between companies are the main value. Lots of companies already have to make considerable efforts to restore dialogue with customers, as social distance leads to distance from business. On the other hand, in a crisis, business relationships can become stronger. The way we work in busy times says a lot about our ultimate goals. We are ready to help you keep in touch with existing and potential customers.

The service will allow

- Choose the companies you are interested in working with.
- Conduct online negotiations with them, make a presentation and ask questions of interest.
- With the consent of customers, get a video recording of the meeting.
